

CAROLYN HOUGH

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR POLICY AUSTRALIA

ABOUT CAROLYN HOUGH

Carolyn is an expert adviser on internet and communications law and policy, including copyright, classification and media law.

Over her 25-year career, Carolyn has advised a diverse range of clients, including Netflix, Google, Amazon, SBS and Time Warner; peak bodies in the education and cultural sectors; digital rights organisations; and copyright holder representatives such as the Interactive Games Association of Australia, the Motion Picture Association, APRA and Screenrights.

Carolyn led the team that implemented Australia's first digital copyright law - the Copyright Amendment (Digital Agenda Act) 2001 - and has been deeply involved in copyright policy reform processes in Australia ever since.
