ABOUT KATE HADDOCK

Kate Haddock has practised as an intellectual property lawyer since 1989 and is one of the founding partners of Banki Haddock Fiora, established in 1995. She advises copyright collecting societies in relation to all aspects of enforcement, rate setting, regulation, corporate matters, and commercialisation. Kate advises copyright owners on licensing structures and copyright management, and has extensive experience in dispute resolution and copyright litigation in the Federal Court of Australia and the Copyright Tribunal of Australia.

Kate has acted in numerous key copyright proceedings, and in authorisation and notification proceedings before the ACCC and the Australian Competition Tribunal. Kate has been included in the intellectual property section of the Best Lawyers of Australia list published by the Australian Financial Review, since 2009. Most recently, she has been noted as a Preeminent Contentious Intellectual Property Lawyer and Leading Non-Contentious Intellectual Property Lawyer in the 2021 Doyles Guide.

Kate is Chair of the Australian Copyright Council and of the newly established Authors Legal, and is a director of Nordoff-Robbins Music Therapy Australia Limited.
